The Russell List of Inscriptions

The only prior list of inscriptions for some Plymouth cemeteries is one to be found in the N.H. Historical Society. A copy has been xeroxed and is included in this work. It is not known who made the entire list. Under the cemetery opposite the Grafton County Fairground is typed "submitted by George M. Russell, July 11, 1892." These lists include burials through about 1900. For the sake of convenience, these lists will be referred to as the Russell List.

Whoever made the lists, or typed them, confused some cemeteries. For example, some burials known to be in the Spencer yard are listed under the Blodgett (Cookville) cemetery, etc. As far as can be ascertained, there is this confusion among the Spencer, Cookville and Hunt cemeteries but not the Stearns, Lower Intervale and Union cemeteries.

Appropriate notes have been made in the present list to show discrepancies between the Russell List and present findings. In a few instances Russell includes an inscription not now found and such inscriptions have been included in the present list. Since Russell's time there has been considerable aging of stones and some have apparently been lost or broken. Where present readings do not agree with Russell List, appropriate remarks are made.

The first one and a quarter pages of the Russell List have been misplaced. They go with Lower Intervale cemetery.

These lists include the following cemeteries: Union Cemetery (Plymouth-Bridgewater line); Lower Intervale; Grafton Fairground (Hunt) opposite Mr. Ezekiel Elliott Merrill's (Cookville); Spencer; Stearns; Eben Blodgett Place (Ireland- Yeaton Hill) and the Plymouth Town Cemetery (Riverside).

Also referred to is a cemetery near Alfred Cook's where he listed Jacob Merrill, Sr., and Mary, wife of Ezekiel Merrill, also about 20 others (not named). According to the 1890 map of Plymouth, the Cooks lived in what is called Cookville, but these two names do not appear on the list; a Jacob does, but not a wife of Ezekiel Merrill.
Index to Cemeteries

Cemeteries have been indexed by name or by cemetery location.

In certain instances, such as Pilsbury and Pillsbury, or Cumings and Cummings, the names have been combined in one group.

There are instances in which there will be repetitions of the same person, e.g., when the person has a separate gravestone but may also appear on a monument erected to the whole family.

Where the maiden name of the wife is given, e.g., Mary Smith, wife of Joseph Snow, the name will appear as Snow, Mary (Smith).

In some instances where there are names of children, with names of parents or initials given, and the parents do not appear on gravestones, the entry will read infant son of C.L. and L.P. Ward. Such an entry has been made to help researchers find people who must have lived in town but who may not have gravestones of their own or who removed from town but once lived here.

Lone Grave on Reservoir Road

In an open field, surrounded by an iron rail fence on Reservoir Road, is a single grave of a Revolutionary War soldier — Howard. This is presumed to be Joshua Howard, Captain, volunteer from Plymouth, Col. Whipple's brigade to assist Stark at Stillwater and Saratoga.

Lone Grave near Junction of Cunings Hill and Texas Roads

On Texas Hill Road about a half mile south of its junction with Cunings Hill Road on the left hand side is a small iron-railed cemetery which contains a single grave. Stone is now flat on the ground and is broken. What can be read now says: —Almena Seavey, died May ---, 1831, ae 22 yrs 19 dys.

Stearns Plymouth History gives the following: Alpheus Seavey, son of Joshua of Andover in March 4, 1829, Almena Sanborn of Sandborn, April 21, 1819, dau of William and Lois (Woodman) Sanborn. At the date of his marriage he moved to Plymouth, living east of Plymouth mountain and on the Pervier Road (the old name for this section of Texas Hill Road). He d Sept. 18, 1834. She d May 10, 1831. Upon a broken stone on the farm they occupied is inscribed: Almena Seavey d May 10, 1831, ae 22 yrs 19 dys. They had one child, infant, d 1831, buried with the mother.

Spencer Cemetery

This is a small cemetery located on northern side of Tenney Mountain Highway (Route 3A) in a field near the former Arnold Spencer farm in West Plymouth. It is situated on a hill which brings its surface above floodwaters. It was formerly shaded by a large elm tree, now cut down. The yard is overgrown with brush and full of woodchuck holes. Some stones suffer from being hit by bullets. The yard contains the oldest known gravestone in town, that of the Widow Bridgett Snow, 1773. The iron rail fence around this yard is broken in several places. The yard has a total of 18 stones if all stones appearing to be footstones are such. Near the line of Bean stones is a half stone in line with other headstones which cannot be read. On the Dearborn lot is a slate field stone, probably a head stone without a trace of an inscription. We have a total of sixteen stones which can be read, one of which does not appear on any Russell list (Elisha Bean).

Here lies the body of Widow Bridgett Snow, formerly the wife of Mr. Joseph Snow, who departed this life the 3rd day of December, 1773, in the 73rd year of her age. (On Russell list this stone is listed for Cookville)

Lt. Ephraim Chamberlain, N.H. Militia, Ev. War. This stone is a War Department stone placed there through the efforts of the D.A.R. which replaced a stone read on the Russell list as "died December 11, 1829, ae 29. However, on the Russell lists this stone is placed in the Hunt Cemetery. Apparently Lt. Ephraim also served in the French and Indian War and was captured at the Battle of the Cedars in the invasion of Canada during the Rev. War. (Rev. War Records).

Benjamin Dearborn, died March 16, 1814, ae 38. (On Russell List is at Cookville)

Mrs. Sarah, wife of Benjamin Dearborn, died October 5, 1823, in her 50th yr. (On Russell List is in Cookville)

Martin, son of Benjamin and Sally Dearborn, died December 10, 1823, ae 38 (On Russell Lists is in Hunt)

Capt. Ovid Dearborn, died August 29, 1829, ae 29 (Russell List gives him in Hunt)

Sophronia D., wife of Pearsons S. Cross, died May 5, 1833, ae 29. Her proximity to the Dearborns suggests a family connection. (On Russell List in Hunt)

Mrs. Mercy, consort of Mr. Joseph Kelley, died June 22, 1819, ae 38.

Ezra Murch, died April 26, 1813, ae 43.

Amos Philips, died October 25, 1807, ae 89.

Abigail, wife of Amos Philips, died February 13, 1808, ae 86

Mrs. Ruth, consort of Deacon Elisha Bean, died March 15, 1808 or 1817, ae 64 yrs (Russell List gives her in Hunt)

Deacon Elisha Bean, died September 10 (?), 1817, ae 78. This stone is not on the Russell List and the dates of Deacon Bean and his wife are confused on the Russell List.

Judge Samuel Emerson 1736-1819 (Stone not on Russell Lists)
His wife Mary Little 1742-1818

There is a large slab stone on the ground engraved simply RYAN.

The Russell Lists for this cemetery give the following stone inscription, stone not now present:
Mary, wife of Benjamin Johnson, died June 23, 1817, ae 38

This cemetery is surrounded by an iron rail fence and is clear of brush. Some stones need to be reset. From the mounds and depressions in this rather large yard, one's guess is that there were many more burials here than the stones give.

Small cemetery on Stark land just beyond Plymouth-Campton line on Mt. Pero (Beech Hill) Road

In her book TWENTY DECADES IN PLYMOUTH, NEW HAMPSHIRE, Mrs. Speare says "on Beech Hill is the private Merrill Family ground and at the Cook neighborhood." There are several Merrills buried in the little cemetery at Cookville. The only cemetery we have been able to find on Beech Hill is the above cemetery, but we find no Merrill burials. This is not to say there are no Merrills buried there but that there are no remaining Merrill markers. This cemetery is grown up with trees; some lumbering has been done on it; there are many broken branches and several stones have been pulled out of the ground. There is no design so that it is impossible to tell footstones from headstones. There are several rectangular stones about a foot and a half high and about six inches wide. It is possible that these are lot markers but the great probability is that they are headstones since some are marked with initials and a date. The engravings are not carved but scratched in with some sharp instrument. Most are not legible and others barely so. In addition there are some field stones which show signs of markings but the inscription cannot be brought out by chalk or brushing.

On stone, the Sarah Davis stone, has a porcelain portrait holder at the top with a sliding cover which reveals her picture.

Index of Maiden Names

An attempt has been made to index wives by maiden name to help the researcher. Such a task has many difficulties. Where a maiden name is given on the tombstone and then is specifically given as some one's wife, the connection is definite. But, there are instances where circumstantially, a connection can be made. We have followed the following rules.

We have included maiden names where they are definite on the inscriptions.

Where a stone states, e.g., Ida Avery Fortune, we have assumed that Ida Avery married a Fortune since she is listed on the Avery stone.

Where a name is given for a wife, e.g., Sarah Grant Smith, we have assumed that the maiden name was Grant.

There are probably mistakes, and we have probably omitted some.
